NOTES.—Organized at Brattleboro, Vt., under the second call for troops. Leaving the State September, 1862, it was stationed on guard duty in Maryland until July, 1863, when it joined the Army of the Potomac, soon after the battle of Gettysburg. It was assigned to Morris's (1st) Brigade, Carr's (3d) Division, Sixth Corps. Under command of Colonel Jewett, the Tenth first encountered the enemy at Locust Grove (Mine Run) in which action it took a commendable part, losing 11 killed, 56 wounded, and 2 missing. In March, 1864, the Third Corps having been discontinued, the division was transferred to the Sixth Corps. The division, under command of General Ricketts, took a prominent part in the storming of Cold Harbor. The regiment, under Colonel Henry, suffered severely in this unsuccessful assault, its casualties amounting to 28 killed, 131 wounded, and 3 missing. At the battle of the Opequon, it lost 12 killed and 53 wounded, Major Edwin Dillingham being among the killed. It took 17 officers and 260 men into action at Cedar Creek, losing there 16 killed, 65 wounded, and 4 missing. The campaign in the Shenandoah Valley having been successfully ended, the Sixth Corps returned to Petersburg in December. The Tenth was engaged in the grand, victorious assault on the lines about Petersburg, April 2, 1865, with a loss of 44 killed and wounded, and was the first regiment in the division to plant its colors inside the enemy's works.
