NOTES.—Recruited at Geneva, N. Y., from the counties of Ontario, Seneca, and Yates. It was under fire for the first time at Maryland Heights, where it received the main force of the enemy's attack, a large share of the casualties occurring in its ranks. During the fighting at Harper's Ferry it lost 13 killed and 42 wounded ; total, 55. The regiment was surrendered two days after, together with the rest of the garrison at Harper's Ferry, and being paroled immediately was ordered to Chicago, Ill., where it spent two months in Camp Parole, awaiting notice of its exchange. Returning to Virginia, the winter of 1862-3 was passed in camp at Union Mills, Va. In June, 1863, it joined the Army of the Potomac, and was placed in Willard's Brigade, Alex. Hays's (3d) Division, Second Corps, with which it marched to Gettysburg, where the regiment won honorable distinction, capturing five stands of colors in that battle. Colonel Willard, the brigade commander, being killed there, Colonel Sherrill succeeded him, only to meet the same fate, while in the regiment the casualties amounted to 40 killed, 181 wounded, and 10 missing ; total, 231. At Bristoe Station the regiment won additional honors by its conspicuous gallantry, and sustained the heaviest loss in that action ; casualties, 6 killed, 33 wounded, and 10 missing ; total, 49. The One Hundred and Twenty-sixth having been transferred to Barlow's (1st) Division, entered the spring campaign of 1864 with less than 300 men, of whom 100 were detailed at headquarters as a provost-guard. Its casualties at the Wilderness were 5 killed, 62 wounded, and 9 missing ; and at Po River and Spotsylvania, 6 killed, 37 wounded, and 7 missing. Colonel Baird was killed at Petersburg.
